COURSE OBJECTIVE

The Comprehensive Annual Financial Report (CAFR) is a key transparency document, communicating a government’s health, efficiency and effectiveness in providing services to the public. This course provides an overview of the governmental accounting and auditing function for managers, strategies for internal controls, as well as best practices in developing the CAFR. Experts in the field will share key insights on the value of understanding and improving your organization’s financial statements and long-term health. The lead instructor is Usha Rackliffe, assistant professor of accounting at the Emory University Goizueta Business School. She previously served as chief financial officer for the Board of Regents of the University System of Georgia. CPE credits: 32

YOUR BENEFITS

• Our college is ranked No. 5 in public finance and budgeting by U.S. News & World Report.
• World-class faculty from the Andrew Young School of Policy Studies teach courses.
• Leading experts from the public and private sector are guest speakers.
• Small class size and in-depth materials emphasize strategic thinking.
• Participants will leave ready to tackle real-world problems.

PAST INSTRUCTORS AND GUEST SPEAKERS

• Russell Hinton, former state auditor of Georgia
• Robin Prunty, managing director, S&P Global Ratings
• Alan Skelton, state accounting officer, State (Ga.) Accounting Office

Program Fee

$1,315 - Public Sector
$1,880 - Regular
Fee includes course content/materials, light breakfast and afternoon snack. Payment is due 10 business days before the start of class.

Register on our website by Nov. 13, 2017. Visit us at:
cslf.gsu.edu/training
Contact Us

For additional questions on this or other courses, contact Ronald Shelby, assistant director of executive education at rshelby3@gsu.edu or 404-413-0327.